

PAC Awards of Excellence Program Information for PAC Chapters - 2017

The Paramedic Association of Canada has developed an awards program to recognize exceptional Canadian paramedics and paramedic supporters at the national level. The inaugural award presentation will occur this August at the 2017 PACE conference in Quebec City.

Four awards have been created;

- Paramedic of the Year
- Award of Excellence for Education and Training
- Award of Excellence for Innovation and Research
- Award of Excellence for Leadership and Community Building

The award PAC national awards committee is asking for your help to get nominations forwarded for consideration. The success of this program depends on engagement from every chapter.

Each PAC chapter is responsible for collecting nominations from its members and the geographic area that they represent. Please share the award criteria and nomination form with your members, along with the best method for your chapter to receive nominations. We do not anticipate a large number of nominations this year, but that will ultimately depend on the engagement of chapter members with the program.

Once nominations have closed, each chapter is responsible for the initial selection of the best nomination in each category to forward to the national awards committee. All information forwarded to the national awards committee must be digitally submitted to awards@paramedic.ca by May 30th. (Please note that this email should not be publically shared)

Key Dates:

Nominations open until May 15th,

Chapter selection forwarded to PAC national by May 30th

Recipients notified by June 30th

Awards presentation at PACE Aug 18th

If your chapter has any questions, please email awards@paramedic.ca. More information on this awards program will be distributed as it develops. This is the inaugural year for this program, so we would appreciate your assistance and feedback to make this program an annual success.
